

Sinclair Broadcast Group's recent actions have illustrated the dangers caused by media consolidation. When large companies own several news organizations (whether TV, radio, the press, or all three) we in the public do not get all the news to which we are entitled. My husband and I are getting sick and tired of reading the same biased information word for word, or seeing the same exact opinions offered on several radio or TV stations. We desperately would like the media to offer all the news and information that we need to make informed decisions. We are sick and tired of hearing the same "catch phrases", biased statements and "one-liners" in places where we should be getting NEWS reports and good investigative reporting. The media is failing in its job and the FCC is part of this failure.

The FCC is responsible to the public . DO YOUR JOB!

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
